Danish gaming and game-creation platform Kogama has three million active users every day. And this shows the potential of game creation platforms. Kogama's success is due to its focus on creating a platform for game creators to receive royalties from leading game publishers. Kogama's CEO, Jørgen Madsen, says that the platform is designed to be an open ecosystem for game creators, allowing them to create games for Xbox Series X and PC (via Steam and Battle.net). This means that regardless of your platform, you will be able to play with millions of users on other systems or devices.
